About Plays and Players By BIDE DUDLEY

HE success of some plays seems to depend on the locality in which they are presented. Word from Canada conveys the surprising news that "A Little Bit of prising news that "A Little Bit of Finf," which was one of the season's most emphatic failures in New York, is making a pronounced hit in the Bominson. Lou Weed writes us from Winnipeg to this effect. He states that the play is on tour up there under the management of Albert Brown and is duing a fine business. "We played Winnipeg to $5,000 in nine days," says his letter. "We also played Regina three days to $2,000, and three days in Saskatoon brought in $2,500."

"A Lattle Bit of Finft' lasted just one week in New York, although it came bare with a record of 600 nights at the Critarion Theatre, Landon An all-English company played it here and it was a very sad affair.

JUSTINE LOVES ANOTHER.

Justine Johnstone, according to an announcement from the Princess Theatre, wishes to deny emphatically a report that she is engaged to marry Guy Bolton, the libratist. The blood "Oh, Boy!" actress admits that she is contemplating matrimens, but says it is some other guy.

A BLOW FOR THEATRICALS.

This department has received a despatch from Hussia which would indiepatch from the sta which would indi-cate that very few plays of Japanese life will be produced there this year. It reads: "Devolvek vitchrizing valu-dopetro ist vizze axelvitch moderoff punko petravaptsch diff axelgicase strachni doff plague take German Kalser!" However, we learn from private sources 'but Russia is pre-bared for the supresent. pured for the emergency.

HOW TEMPUS DOES FUGIT!

Adolf Philip, who is playing his old farce, "The Corner Grocer" at the Yorkville Theatre, has sent us an old programme of the Casino which shows the cast of the same play when it was done in English under the title of "About Town," in the spring of 1894. Among those who had paris in "About Town" were Dan Daly William Cameron, David Warfield, William Cameron, David Warfield, William Cameron, David Warfield, William P. Seattman, Kate Liester, Ada Dare, Maym Kelso, Julia Gover, William F. Mack, Amy Stewart, Harriot Sterling and Jessie Halph.
